

In Memory of Heidi Morse

This year, the Delaware Valley Eagle Alliance wishes to salute the artistic legacy of Heidi Morse, an artist whose work first captured our imagination when she agreed to be the featured artist at EagleFest 2004. Heidi created two amazing posters for consideration that year. Her first poster was featured at EagleFest 2004. Her second poster was featured at EagleFest 2010.

Heidi's career began at Parson's School of Design, where she studied illustration. After receiving her degree, Heidi worked with Jarvis Boone, a wood carver, in the artisan village of Sugarloaf, New York. Over twenty years ago, she joined the Narrowsburg community and has been a vital and valued member of the community, creating paintings and signs for local homeowners and businesses.

Although Heidi could not be part of this year's EagleFest, her artwork and her indomitable spirit will remain with us for many years to come. John DiGiorgio, Delaware Valley Eagle Alliance Chairman, said during this year's opening ceremony, "We are very proud and honored to feature Heidi's poster for this year's event. She was a very talented artist and had a passion for the eagles I will never forget, and I know she is among us here today,"
